“Everglades of the North”
(The Kankakee Grand Marsh)
Given by the Everglades of the North Production Team

Monday, February 11, 2013
The program is free and open to the public.
6:30-8 p.m. Film and Discussion
Kankakee Community College
Room D-140 Mini-Auditorium; Popcorn will be served

The Grand Kankakee Marsh was one of the largest wetlands in North America and covered much of present day Northern Indiana and Illinois. It was home to some of the highest concentrations of wildlife on the planet.

A first run Kankakee showing of the newly released documentary “Everglades of the North”, featuring the diverse ecology, the astonishing history, and the controversial saga of the Grand Kankakee Marsh. Members of the production team will be present to answer questions.

Brian Kallies (Producer, Director of Photography, and Editor) has worked on broadcast documentaries, short films, television specials, and commercials.

Jeff Manes (Producer, Writer) writes the syndicated column Salt, that tells the stories of the working class in the Calumet Region.

Pat Wisniewski (Producer, Director of Photography) began her production company, For Goodness Sake Productions, with the mission of producing quality films that make a difference.

Tom Desch (Producer, Director of Photography, Editor) is an independent documentarian and commercial editor and shooter (Towers Productions, Axiom Megamedia).

The event is sponsored by the Council for Community Sustainability, a public outreach group created as part of Kankakee Community College’s sustainability initiative.

For more information, contact Rich Schultz, KCC’s Sustainability Coordinator at 815-802-8243.